[IJC] Pollution Load Capacity Analysis of BOD, COD and TSS in Karang Mumus River, Samarinda

Aulia Ratri Hapsari <aulia.ratri.h@ugm.ac.id> to Vita, Slamet, Ignasius

Feb 4, 2020, 2:33 PM

Dear authors,

We are sorry to inform you that we have not finished the proofread yet because we found a lot of grammatical errors in the introduction (only). We are afraid that it would interfere with the ideas or messages you want to tell us (the readers), for instance, "A lot of dense settlements on the banks of the river." What does it mean? It has no verb so that it is not a sentence (incomplete sentence). In addition, there are numerous similar issues to this example. There are also several simple sentences that could be combined into a better complex or compound sentence. Please also be careful when writing a sentence in a passive voice.

Therefore, before continuing the proofread stage, we thought that the language of the manuscript should be checked and reviewed (proofread) by a proficient English user (professional proofreader), especially concerning academic writing/scientific articles.

We really appreciate your understanding and kind cooperation.

Best Regards,
